

Martin Dudley Barber (FPSSA)

Martin Dudley is a Creative Fine Art photographer from South Africa.

He received his first film camera at the age of 9 and over the years feel in love with photography in general. In 2002 the first digital cameras started making there way onto the market in South Africa, they were just simple point and shoot cameras and he could see that this was going to change photography completely in the future.

A few years later he got his first digital SLR camera as soon as they came onto the market and started learning editing software like Photoshop and with this a whole new way of capturing images. With this change over, Martin got down to work and studied all aspects of digital photography in order to apply his creative touch to his work.

He enjoys photography and capturing images is a big part his life, however he loves telling stories and expressing his own personal emotions in his work.

The Camera is like a tool for him, like a brush in the hands of an artists, to put the picture or message on a canvas or screen. You do not take a photo of something but rather about something and then comes up with an idea or concept for his next work. His passion is Black and White and Creative Photography.

The other passion he has is to teach and pass on his knowledge and skills to others and is actively involved teaching photography and editing to many students in his country and other students all over the world.

He Has been awarded 2 APSSA Honours and a FPSSA Honour by the PSSA

He Has won the Impala Black and white 4 times as well as the Colour Category once

He also is the Admired in Africa Creative photographer of the year and the Photo and Video Experience Creative photographer of the year.
